What is KidZania?

KidZania is an interactive kid-sized city combining fun and learning through exciting role-play guided activities for children aged 2-16 years.

KidZania was first introduced in Santa Fe, Mexico in 1999 and was created and developed by Mexican entrepreneur Xavier López Ancona, the Founder and CEO of KidZania. KidZania currently has 28 facilities in 21 cities around the world, including KidZania Dubai and Abu Dhabi.

How does this kid-sized play city work?

KidZania is a kid-sized city where kids can explore over 70 role-playing activities in establishments found in a real city – such as a Fire Station, Hospital, Theater, Factories, TV Studio, and even an Airport!

It is the ultimate role-playing environment where kids can safely discover how a city works and try out various professions. Each establishment offers a unique experience where they will learn financial literacy as they earn kidZos; KidZania's own currency, which they can save in a bank account or use to purchase goods or services.

What do you mean by role-play?

Role-play comes naturally to kids. It is a kind of play that has continued across generations. Role-play develops problem solving and life skills as well as helps instill values. KidZania Dubai takes role-playing to the next level by building a city just for kids – providing a realistic and interactive environment for children play out numerous roles of their own choice. From police officer to performer to pizza chef, KidZania Dubai currently offers over 70 role-playing activities with a range of difficulty to meet the abilities and interests of every child. Pilots navigate airplanes, television anchors read the news, police officers perform detective work and chefs cook up tasty food! When kids work, they earn kidZos, KidZania's own currency, so they can pay for goods and services in KidZania. Getting started is simple: kids pick an occupation, learn about their job, wear a uniform, start earning and spending kidZos, and have fun!
